The Jason Motte Foundation & 108 Stitches Baseball Garb Announce autograph promotion ahead of September 2nd's Fourth Annual KCancer Day

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 25, 2017 – The Jason Motte Foundation and 108 Stitches Baseball Garb are proud to announce a special promotion running between now and September 2. Each week, four KCancer representatives from around the league will be featured in an effort to promote fan awareness for the Fourth Annual KCancer Day on September 2. Fans who purchase one of the featured player's t-shirts will receive free shipping and be entered into a drawing for an autographed piece of memorabilia from that KCancer representative. T-shirts can be purchased at www.108stitches.com.

On September 2, each KCancer representative will gather their teammates in solidarity against cancers of all kinds by wearing their respective KCancer shirts to and from the field. Fans are encouraged to join in by wearing their KCancer shirts that day as well, to further spread the word in the fight against cancer. Supporters can also share their photos on various social media platforms by using the hashtag #Kcancer17.

The line of KCancer shirts was an initiative that current Atlanta Braves relief pitcher, Jason Motte, started back in 2013. Since its inception, sales from these t-shirts have equated to more than $200,000 being donated to over 50 different cancer charities. Information on each representative's charity can be found at www.108stitches.com. The promotional schedule is listed below so fans can plan their purchases.

July 24-29: Elvis Andrus (Texas Rangers), Jerad Eickhoff (Philadelphia Phillies), Tom Koehler (Miami Marlins), and Evan Longoria (Tampa Bay Rays)

July 31-August 6: Collin McHugh (Houston Astros), Shelby Miller (Arizona Diamondbacks), Yan Gomes (Cleveland Indians), and Chase Anderson (Milwaukee Brewers)
